DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restriction

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-17, drawn to methods of treatment, are classified in class 435, subclass 2.
- II. Claims 18-23, drawn to pharmaceutical formulations and package for treating lung fibrosis, are classified in class 435, subclass 975 and class 536, subclass 23.1.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions II and I are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant application, the product can be used in a materially different process. For example, it is known in the art that Toll-like receptor agonists can induce distinct macrophage responses. Thus, the inventions are patentably distinct.

Election of Species

Following the election of Invention I, Applicant is further required to elect one species from Groups A, B AND C.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species:

A. different conditions associated with lung fibrosis listed in claim 4.

The species are independent or distinct because the different conditions are drawn to different physiological mechanisms and symptoms; thus, the species are not related.

B. different nucleic acids that are listed in claims 6, 7, 8 and 9.

The species are independent or distinct because they represent structurally different polynucleotides. Therefore, where structural identity is required, such as for binding of a TLR, the different sequences have different effects. Thus, the species are unrelated. Of note, it is required by the Applicant to specifically state what is being elected. Thus, one sequence must be elected without any variables, such as, n>1 or N can be any base.

C. different modes of administration (see claims 10, 11 and 12).

The species are independent or distinct because they are methods of administration with different modes of operation, with respect to starting materials, physiological mechanisms, protocol procedures, and end products; therefore, each species is distinct.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, no claims are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

CONCLUSIONS

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
